"Road to Savannah" is Book 2 in the Made in Savannah Cozy Mysteries Series BONUS: RECIPE INCLUDED! Carlita Garlucci has sold everything she owns and left the only home she has ever known to move to historic Savannah, Georgia. Her daughter, Mercedes, is moving with her and the women are both excited and nervous about this new chapter in their lives, having always lived under the shadow of the men in the family. The repairs to their inherited properties are moving along nicely and everything seems to be falling into place, everything that is, except for the body they discover inside one of the buildings, the dilapidated restaurant. Despite the fact that the Garlucci family was not even in Savannah at the time the victim was murdered, they can't prove it. On top of that, the victim, a member of Savannah Architectural Society, also known as "SAS," had been sent to the property to discuss possible construction violations. The other members of SAS are convinced the Garlucci family murdered one of their own while Carlita is convinced that someone is trying to frame them. Can the mother / daughter duo figure out who the real killer is, or will the police dig into Carlita's past and discover that she has her own share of secrets she's trying desperately to leave behind?

Customer Reviews

Road to Savannah is the second book in Hope Callaghan's Made in Savannah Cozy Mysteries Series. Ms. Callaghan has written a well thought out and interesting mystery, with a good story line and excellent character development. The writing style flows smoothly and is an easy read. The mystery is well throughout and there are enough suspects, twists, and turns to hold the reader's interest. Ms. Callaghan's descriptive writing makes the reader feel like they are right there watching the activities as they take place. This is a clean cozy mystery featuring no gratuitous sex, violence, or foul language. I highly recommend this book to anyone who enjoys a well-crafted cozy mystery. Carlita Garlucci sold her New York home and she and her daughter, Mercedes, have arrived at their new home in Savannah, Georgia. Carlita's oldest son, Vinnie, Jr., followed them to make sure they had a safe trip and to check out the properties and Savannah. Carlita and Mercedes are excited about starting their new lives and pleased with the progress Bob Lowman and his construction crew have made on the renovations. Vinnie, Jr. thinks the properties look like dumps and is concerned his mother and sister are making a big mistake. Steve Winter, the owner of Shades of Ink tattoo parlor, and his sister, Autumn, are happy Carlita and Mercedes are back in town, and help them settle in. Unfortunately, before they can even unpack, they discover the body of Norma Jean Cleaver, a member of the Savannah Architectural Society, on the floor of the building that used to house a restaurant.
